

State's Place
In Literature
Near Top, Says
Prof. Werner

(Editor's Note: Pennsylvania's place in American literature is presented by William L. Werner, Professor of American literature, Pennsylvania State College, as a feature of Pennsylvania Week.)

State College, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—You can't measure authors as you do coal, iron and potatoes, but in literature too there's plenty of evidence that Pennsylvania ranks near the top.

It is a little known fact, for example, that Pennsylvania has produced a bigger and better crop of successful dramatists than any other state in the union.

What other state can match this record? Maxwell Anderson, leading American dramatist of recent years, was born in Atlantic (Crawford county) Pa. George S. Kaufman, our most successful writer of comedies, was born in Pittsburgh, and his first collaborator, Marc Connelly, comes from nearby McKeesport. George Kelly, another author of comedies, and Clifford Odets, leading proletarian dramatist, both hail from Philadelphia.

In Earlier Years, Too

Where would the modern American theatre be without these hits and prize winners by Pennsylvania playwrights—Joan of Lorraine, "Winter," "The Late George Apley," "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "Green Pastures," "The Show-Off," "Craig's Wife," "Waiting for Lefty," and "The Golden Boy"?

But Pennsylvania's famous authors are not all of the twentieth century; they go back to 1732 when Ben Franklin first issued "Poor Richard's Almanac." Philadelphia is the state's oldest and greatest literary center. There Tom Paine issued his "crisis" articles that heartened our Revolutionary soldiers, and Francis Hopkinson wrote the song, "Hail Columbia!" In 1838 Edgar Allan Poe came to Philadelphia for a 7-year stay as a magazine editor, and about the same time Whitier published an anti-slavery journal there.

In the 1880's Philadelphia-born Frank Stockton set the world guessing whether the lady or the tiger came out of the arena door. At the turn of the century a galaxy of writers appeared—the physician S. Weir Mitchell, the journalist Richard Harding Davis, Kate Douglas Wiggin who invented "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and Owen Wister who immortalized "The Virginian." In the twentieth century Philadelphia is famous for Agnes Repplier's witty essays, James Huneker's brilliant criticisms, Tom (Please Turn to Page 3)

COURT REFUSES
VET'S DIVORCE
ON 'DESERTION'

The wife of a serviceman is not required to live with the serviceman's parents and her withdrawal from "their habitation, standing alone, could not constitute desertion of him," the Adams county court has held in an opinion handed down in the action in divorce brought by Walter R. Goldsmith, Gettysburg R. 1, against Lura Belle (Simpson) Goldsmith.

According to the opinion dismissing the divorce case at the cost of the libellant, the couple married June 23, 1942, in Louisiana, while Goldsmith was serving in the Navy. They lived together for three days and then he returned to duty. His wife later came to live with his parents here and the husband visited during furloughs. After the last furlough, the wife told his mother "she was going to visit her parents, and that is the last she has been seen."

Who's Cashman?
Election Board
Wants To Know

The Adams County Election board clerks, non-partisan, of course in their work, nevertheless have good cause to wish that the Democratic party is successful in electing a township auditor in Oxford township on November 4.

If the Democratic candidate wins, all will be well, but if the Republicans are victors—the election board has a real problem on its hands.

In compliance with the law, the clerks placed the name on the ballots which was written in as the Republican candidate for Oxford township auditor, with the most votes.

The name is "Cashman," no handle to it, no given name, just "Cashman." Before preparing the ballots an investigation was made which disclosed several Cashmans in the township.

The law is the law, so "Cashman" it is on the ballots, but if "Cashman" wins, then comes the question: "Who Is Cashman?"

START PLANS FOR HALLOWEEN PARADE OCT. 30

Plans for a Halloween parade to be held here October 30 for the youngsters and adults of the town and county were discussed Monday evening at a meeting of members of various local organizations held at the Moose home on York street.

The discussion showed that probably well over $100 will be available for prizes to the ghosts, goblins, clowns and the like who annually make up the goblin parade held to celebrate the eve of All Saints' Day.

These present Monday night hope to interest a number of local organizations in addition to the ones of which they are members in backing the project. Such a thing as a Halloween parade is direct service to the community, they pointed out, with all money donated going directly to the participants in the parade who are judged the outstanding ones in their classifications. Last year nearly 2,000 took part in the Halloween parade.

Meet Next Monday

By holding the affair on Thursday evening, October 30, the group hopes the parade will be of interest to persons throughout the county as well as to Gettysburg youngsters and adults. Those planning to take part in the Mardi Gras events at Ardenstville Friday night, October 31, can give their costumes a final check and a little extra wear here, it was pointed out, and the same holds true for the York Springs mummies who will march there on Saturday night, November 1.

Those present Monday night plan to ask their organizations to select two representatives to meet as a committee in charge of the parade next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Elks home to complete plans for the event. All persons who are interested in helping to stage the affair are also asked to attend that session.

26 Baby Beef Club Calves Distributed

Twenty-six Hereford calves for the 1946 baby beef clubs in the county were scheduled for distribution to the various members this afternoon.

The calves were purchased Monday by County Farm Agent M. T. Hartman, Assistant County Agent Ira Dunmire and 4-H Baby Beef Club Leaders Simon and Francis Murren and A. B. C. Williams. The purchases were made at the Lancaster Livestock yards.

The calves were scheduled to arrive this morning at the Francis Murren farm near Brunshtown and the members were to secure their calves this afternoon.

FIREMEN PLAN MEMORIAL AT TWO TAVERNS

Plans for the annual Memorial services of the Adams county firemen's association were outlined on Monday evening at the quarterly meeting of the group held at the Biglerville high school auditorium.

The service will be held the afternoon of Sunday, November 16, at Grace Lutheran church, Two Taverns. George A. McClellan, West Middle street, was named chairman of the committee in charge which will also include B. D. Bowers, Two Taverns, and George D. March, York street.

The new president of the organization, Clarence Deardorff, Cash-town, was installed by the retiring president, J. Faber Wildasin, Abbottstown. The address of welcome was made by the Rev. Henry W. Sternat, of Biglerville.

Name Two Committees

A committee comprising Francis Eck, and C. P. Myers, both of Bonneauville, was appointed to make arrangements for the next meeting of the county group to be held the first Monday of January in Bonneauville.

H. J. Adams, Centennial, was named chairman of the book committee with the following as members: Henry Waltman, Littlestown; J. Faber Wildasin, Abbottstown; Charles Guiden, Aspers, and S. L. Allison, Fairfield.

Motion pictures of Hawaii were shown and refreshments served. About 125 attended the session.

AT LANCASTER MEETING

County Agent M. T. Hartman and Assistant Ira M. Dunmire Monday night attended the fall meeting of the State Association of Artificial Breeding Cooperatives held at Lancaster. The principal speaker at the meeting was Dr. B. T. Sims, chief of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, who spoke on "Brucellosis and Calhoun Vaccination."

Wills Descendant Buys Nearby Farm

William B. McClure and Mrs. Elizabeth Wills McClure, Cape May, N. J., the latter a great granddaughter of the late Judge David Wills of Gettysburg, have purchased the 22-acre farm of Charles H. Thompson in Butler township and will take possession October 25.

Mrs. McClure's mother, Mrs. Leo L. Newcomer, a frequent visitor to Gettysburg, now lives at Rosetree, Pa. She is a granddaughter of Judge Wills.

The sale was made by C. A. Heiges.

CHS TO TEACH PUPILS, 16, HOW TO DRIVE CARS

Gettysburg high school will institute a class to teach pupils 16 years of age and over how to drive an automobile, as soon as a teacher can be certified as instructor and an automobile obtained. Superintendent of Schools Lloyd C. Keefeauver told members of the school board at their regular meeting in the superintendent's office Monday night.

"General Motors will lend us an automobile," Dr. Keefeauver said. "All we will have to pay is the license, insurance and cost of gas and oil."

A present member of the faculty will probably be used as the instructor for this driver education course, Dr. Keefeauver said, but will probably have to take a course of instruction himself in the art of teaching others to drive.

Classroom Work

The car to be loaned to the school will be one with standard shift, the superintendent said. It cannot have "hydromatic" or other types of drives. Classes will probably be open to adults, through extension courses at the school, as well as high school students, he said. Besides actual driving, there will be classroom instruction in rules of the road, etc.

Gettysburg schools will observe Pennsylvania Week by sending class representatives to factories to study safety measures, Dr. Keefeauver announced. One representative from each home room at the high school and at Meade and Lincoln schools will visit the Gettysburg Furniture factory today.

Dr. Keefeauver announced that the (Please Turn to Page 7)

C. C. ROHRBAUGH DIES OF STROKE

Charles C. Rohrbaugh, 71, died at his home in Freedom township Monday evening at 6:45 o'clock following an illness of 17 months. He suffered a slight stroke and had been bedfast for the last two weeks.

The deceased was born in Adams county, a son of the late Aaron and Agnes (Starn) Rohrbaugh. He was a farmer all of his life. Mr. Rohrbaugh was a member of Trinity Evangelical Reformed church here and was assessor in Freedom township for many years. His wife, the former Mary E. Munshour, died last April 8.

Surviving are six children, C. Russell, Gettysburg R. 2; Mrs. Raymond Pissel, East Berlin; Mrs. Willis Waybright, Gettysburg R. 5; Mrs. Carl Wharton, Harrisburg, and John W. and David W., both at home; nine grandchildren, and one sister, Miss Laura Rohrbaugh, Seven Stars.

Funeral services Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Bender funeral home conducted by the Rev. Nevin R. Prantz, Ardenstville. Interment in Evergreen cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday evening after 7 o'clock.

Only Three Districts In State Have More College Teachers Than Gettysburg

"There were only three school districts, regardless of classification, in the entire state of Pennsylvania with a higher percentage of college-certified teachers than Gettysburg last year," Dr. Lloyd C. Keefeauver, superintendent of schools, told members of the school board Monday night at the board's regular October meeting in the superintendent's office at the high school.

"A report from the Teacher Education and Certification Bureau in Harrisburg shows for the year 1946-47 that of all the teachers in third class districts under the supervision of district superintendents 63.5 per cent were college certified," Dr. Keefeauver said. "Gettysburg had a record of 80.4 per cent college certificated teachers."

"It so happens," Dr. Keefeauver added, "that the three districts which had a higher percentage than Gettysburg were all third class districts. Mt. Lebanon was first with 93.2 per cent; Grove City second with 90.9 per cent and Lehigh third with 90 per cent."

Dr. Keefeauver said an analysis of the state report showed that the percentage in first class districts was 52.2 per cent; second class, 62.9; third class (district superintendent) 63.5 and fourth class 46.3 per cent.

Gettysburg schools have only two more pupils enrolled in the elementary grades this year than last year, another report from Dr. Keefeauver

Huge Flying Boat Forced To Land In Mid-Atlantic

BY JACK SMITH

London, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Bermuda Queen, a huge Boeing flying boat carrying 69 persons made a forced landing in the mid-Atlantic today and taxied through rough seas to the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Bibb, three miles away. Rescue attempts were hampered by a storm.

The latest reported wireless message from the scene—received at New York coast guard headquarters—some three hours later, said winds of gale force prevented the lifeboats from transferring the 62 passengers and seven crewmen to the waiting vessel. The coast guard weather ship Duane was ordered out to help.

The plane, carrying what the British press association described as the largest number of passengers ever taken on a transatlantic flight, left Shannon airport, Eire, during the night, for New York, and Baltimore, Md., via Gander, Nfld. Apparently the plane encountered strong headwinds and exhausted its fuel supply.

3 Sunday Evening Concerts Will Be Given In Majestic Theatre; Seek 1100 Members

Gettysburg's Concert Association will present three Sunday concerts in the Majestic theatre this winter, Mrs. Ellen Tipton Buehler, president of the association, announced at the dinner-meeting of workers in the Hotel Gettysburg Monday night. The meeting inaugurated the annual membership campaign which is being conducted this week, closing at 8 o'clock Saturday evening.

Mrs. Buehler announced that the Association, "grateful to the college for its fine cooperation in permitting use of Brua chapel for all of its concerts since the organization's inception," had outgrown the chapel with its limited seating capacity. She also said that assurance could not be given far enough in advance by school officials that the high school auditorium would be available for all concerts. The college is also using the chapel to care for its greatly increased enrollment, she said.

"For that reason we have been forced to look elsewhere for an auditorium to suit our needs. We were successful in securing the Majestic theatre for all three of our concerts. They will be given on Sunday evenings, at an hour that will not conflict with evening services in our churches," she explained.

Littlestown PASTOR, FAMILY TAKE DELAYED VACATION TRIP

The Rev. and Mrs. Grantas E. Hoopert and daughter who were unable to take their vacation during the summer because their daughter, Jolinda Ann, was stricken with polio just as they were ready to begin just their vacation, enjoyed the past week-end as a vacation. They spent the week-end with friends of their former parish at Hustontown, and were entertained in honor of their fifteenth wedding anniversary which will be on October 15, and in honor of their daughter's ninth birthday which will be celebrated October 18.

The pulpit of the Century Methodist church on Sunday in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Grantas E. Hoopert, was supplied by the Rev. Arthur Leeming, superintendent of the Hoffman orphanage near town. His theme was, "The Still Small Voice."

At Youth Meeting

Monday night a group of young people from the church attended the subdistrict meeting of the Methodist Youth Fellowship in the Methodist church at Gettysburg. This sub-district includes the Methodist churches at Gettysburg, Bendersville, York Springs, New Oxford, Hanover and Littlestown.

There will be Junior choir rehearsal, Thursday at 3:45 p. m. and Senior choir rehearsal, Thursday at 8 p. m. The annual Festival of Harvest Home will be observed Sunday morning at 10:30 when the food and money contributions will be given to the Home for Children of the Methodist church near Mechanicsburg.

The family of Jacob Forry of Hanover, a former resident of Union township, held an outing Sunday afternoon and evening in the Christ Church grove in honor of Mr. Forry's birthday anniversary. His children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were present. He was the recipient of many gifts. After games and musical entertainment, refreshments were served. The following attended: Mrs. Ralph Forry and daughter, Yvonne, and Miss Viola Sachs, of Gettysburg; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Forry, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Forry and children, Ruth, Jean, Joyce, Richard and Albert, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Forry and sons Gary and Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Worley, children, Roy, George, Doris and Miriam, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, children, Linda and Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. Harper Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hamm, Mr. and Mrs. W. Trone and children, Donald, David and Nancy, all of Hanover; and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sell, children, Pearl and Dean, of Littlestown.

S. S. Leaders Meet

The Sunday school superintendents, pastors and officers of the Third District Adams County Council of Christian Education held a get-together Monday evening at 7:30 in Redeemer's Reformed church. The following schools of the district were represented: St. John's Lutheran, St. Paul's Lutheran, Christ Reformed, Redeemer's Reformed, St. Paul's Lutheran, Harney, St. Luke's Union near White Hall and Grace Lutheran, Two Taverns. The committee in charge of arrangements was Roscoe W. Rut-tase, Stanley Staub and A. C. Garland. The meeting opened with a song service and prayer in charge of the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, host pastor.

LOCAL ROTARY HISTORY TOLD BY W. G. WEAVER

Five of the charter members of the Gettysburg Rotary club are still members, William G. Weaver, chairman of Rotary information told the members of the local club Monday evening at its regular meeting in the YWCA.

The organization held its first regular meeting November 29, 1920, in the Eagle hotel with the president, M. C. Jones, presiding. The original group included M. C. Jones, E. W. Thomas, Frederic E. Griest, William Tyson and Dr. Chester N. Gitt who are still members.

Samuel G. Spangler joined the club a few months after it was organized and has remained a member since. Weaver said during his talk in which he reported when the 177 men who have been members since the establishment of the organization joined the Rotary club. The 177 include the 60 who are members at the present time. Most of the losses, Weaver pointed out, (Please Turn to Page Two)

GETTYSBURG IN ITS 23RD DAY WITHOUT RAIN

Gettysburg today was in its 23rd day without rain, with the last rainfall, a slight precipitation of .12 of an inch, falling September 22.

As a result the community was rapidly showing the effects of an extensive drought with the ground powdery and the vegetation, spared by the frost, withered and sere.

The general dryness not only has affected the town but the entire county, with a number of farmers reporting wells as nearly dry and with some smaller streams in this section completely dry. Rock creek, north of town, had broken down into pools, with long sections of dry stream bed between the pools. A number of farmers have been hauling water for cattle.

At York Springs, Burgess P. D. Bubb has urged the citizens to conserve water whenever possible as a result of a gradual drop in the town water supply.

Deficiency of Rain

The upper end of the county seems to be in fair shape despite the drought. Bendersville's reservoirs were said to be in good shape with one reservoir overflowing and the other very close to that condition. In addition the town has a large well which was described as "in good shape". The pump to the well was run for a short time Saturday evening, officials of the Bendersville company said, and the water supply seemed more than adequate.

Gettysburg's general dryness is the result of an almost year long deficiency of rainfall. In September there was only .49 of an inch of rain, or over 3½ inches less than normal. The upper part of the county had more rain during September with 2.14 inches noted at Arendtsville, or 1.88 inch less than normal.

The Gettysburg and Biglerville water supplies were said to be in good condition although company officials said that if the dry weather continues for another month "we may have trouble". Water was said to be still running over the dams along Marsh creek that back up the local supply and the stream seems to have a good flow.

The husband, according to the opinion, wrote several letters to the wife at New Orleans and received no answer.

Had Moral Obligation

"There is no evidence," the court holds, "that the libellant made any effort to contact his wife after failing to hear from her in response to his letters to New Orleans."

Holding that there is insufficient evidence to establish the charge of desertion the court pointed out that "in this case the libellant and the respondent never had a habitation of their own and when the respondent left she left the home of the libellant's parents. She was not required to live with them and there was little reason for her to remain with them while he was at sea. Consequently her withdrawal from their habitation, standing alone, could not constitute desertion of him."

"Under the circumstances shown, there was at least a moral obligation on the part of the libellant, upon his return from sea and finding that his wife had left the home of his parents, to communicate with her and to offer to establish a home."

Keystone Ceramic Display In Town

Included among the "Pennsylvania Week" exhibits in Gettysburg store windows is one in Minter's grocery, Baltimore and East Middle streets, by the Keystone Ceramic company, Bendersville. It was inadvertently stated in The Gettysburg Times Monday that the exhibit was by the Penn Ceramic company, Aspers.

The exhibit is an exceptionally fine one of the work done at the Bendersville plant, and shows various groupings and designs in tile, together with photographs of the methods of manufacture.

Another exhibit placed Monday is in the window of The Gettysburg Times, showing examples of the printing work done in the job department of The Gettysburg Times.

West Grove Bandit Captured In Yuma

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today announced capture of a 25-year old man in Yuma, Arizona, charged with participation in the robbery of the West Grove (Pa.), National Bank and Trust company and recovery of $7,600 of the $8,200 taken from the bank.

Lee V. Boardman, agent in charge of the FBI office here, said Norman Lee Rachuba of Lewisville, Pa., was arrested by three officers as he alighted from a train at Yuma at 7:25 a. m. (EST) today.

"Rechuba went up to Sheriff Harold Breech, who had accompanied the FBI agent and the Yuma chief of police, and asked him how to get to one of the hotels," Boardman recounted.

The FBI agent immediately took Rechuba into custody. Boardman said, adding: "He had $498 on his person and $3,153 more was found in his suitcase, making a total of $3,651. With him was Natalie Pierce, a 15 or 16-year-old girl friend who had accompanied him."

Identify Prisoner As Philadelphia Man

A man captured by state police from the Gettysburg and Chambersburg sub-stations between Fayetteville and Chambersburg Saturday night was identified today as Frank Michael Doljan, 30, of Philadelphia, who allegedly stole a car owned by the Standard Auto Sales of Philadelphia Saturday in that city and started on a trip to Alaska. He was said to have told police he planned to drive the car to Seattle and secure passage by boat.

Philadelphia police were scheduled to arrive in Chambersburg to pick up the prisoner and return him to Philadelphia where a charge of larceny of a motor vehicle has been laid against him.

Doljan was captured when police, using radio cars, "boxed" his car on the detour near Chambersburg after a chase that began just west of here. Police began their search after they were notified by York police that Doljan had failed to pay a service station attendant from whom he had secured gasoline and oil and was headed this way.

Find Lost Meter; Four Face Charge

A borough parking meter removed from its stand on Chambersburg street during the afternoon of December 19, 1946, was found today and as a result, Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster said, charges will be brought against two Buford avenue girls and two young men, one a student at the college, probably Friday morning.

The charges are being drawn up now by Borough Solicitor Eugene V. Bullett, Harpster said.

The meter was found Monday evening by William McClure, Gettysburg R. 3, while fishing in Marsh creek. McClure hooked something but was unable to find out what the object might be. He went back this morning and discovered the smashed remains of the parking meter from which the money had been removed.

were caused by death or the member moving out of town.

Started Boys' Club

At its first meeting 27 years ago the local club rented a room on Baltimore street for a Boys' club and the Rev. Paul Pontius was named as chairman of the Boys' Work committee. The boys' club was the big project of the organization during the first several years.

Classification talks—in which members tell about the profession in which they are engaged—have been a feature of the organization since its establishment. Weaver said. The first classification talk was given shortly after the club was founded by the late John D. Keith.

Twelve sons of Rotarians have joined the club since the beginning. Forty-seven members attended Monday's session at which the president, Dr. C. Harold Johnson, presided. The speaker was introduced by Vice President Mares Sherman.

DIVORCE GRANTED

A decree in divorce has been granted by the Adams county court in the libel brought by Hugh D. Bringham, York street, against Daphne L. Bringham. Desertion was the charge.

"Fine Training"

"Some very penetrating, truth-searching, thought-provoking questions were raised and intelligently discussed by the students," Dr. Anderson wrote in his article. "It was a fine demonstration of teaching and of an excellent form of leadership training," he added.

"I looked around that circle of selected students and I found a goodly share of boys from the agriculture department. The boy who opened the forum was an agriculture student. The boy who introduced me to the forum played an equally important role that evening at the FFA banquet."

"We have often heard it said that vocational agriculture boys, especially in the larger schools, seldom distinguish themselves in roles of school

SHIPPENSBURG, LEHIGH TO PLAY HERE THIS WEEK

Another football "double-header" is in store for local fans this coming week-end, Gettysburg high being host to Shippensburg Friday night while the Gettysburg college Bullets will meet Lehigh university here Saturday afternoon.

The high school lads, victors last Friday over Waynesboro 7-0 for their first triumph of the season, will be after their second straight South Penn conference win at the expense of the light but fast Greyhounds.

A new spirit has seized the Maroons following their victory and there is little doubt the Forney-men will be rarin' to go at game time.

Coach "Hen" Bream's Bullets are anticipating a stiff battle with the heavy Lehigh team. The Engineers boast a line averaging 210 pounds 180 pounds.

Seek Another Center
With the loss of Ralph Rock, sub center, who suffered a fracture of his left arm at the elbow last Saturday at Easton, Coaches Bream and Cole are attempting to develop another pivot man. Already the Bullets have lost two centers due to injuries. In addition to Rock, Walt Kinker is out with a dislocated shoulder.

A busy week is in store for the Bullet squad in ironing out the weaknesses which cropped up against Lafayette and it is possible several changes in the lineup may result.

A third game on a local gridiron this week is scheduled for Thursday afternoon when the Gettysburg high junior varsity entertains the Delone Catholic high reserves.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Lou Little, who boldly proclaims he isn't afraid of the Penn football team "because they won't bother me on the bench," confesses that he's a trifle worried about Penn's single wing power at attack. . . . "These days you play so much against the 'T' that when you hit a single wing with some deception to it, you don't know what to do about it," says Little. . . . And Army's Herman Hickman admits the Cadets were "playing it pretty safe" against Illinois although he insists that explains only why Army didn't do more passing. . . . Hickman's mean tackle, Phil Peir, Ray Drury and Charlie Galloway, all are on the injured list and "give me 3 to 2 and you can take all our backs except Rip Rowan." . . . Dud De Groot, Los Angeles Rams head man, maintains that Butch Levy was his club's most important individual in Sunday's triumph over the Cleveland Browns.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

The last time Yale played Wisconsin, the mid-westerners lost but had the satisfaction of seeing Pat O'Dea get off a 100-yard punt. . . . Herschel Baltimore will play for the Baltimore Bullets basketball club this winter. . . . And Greensboro, N. C., high school boasts a guard named Bruce Guard. . . . It will cost the United States about $11,000 to send a soccer team to the 1948 Olympics. . . . Bert McGrane, the Des Moines scribe who is secretary of the Football Writers Association of America, has been in a hospital since October 2. . . . He must have been trying to collect dues.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Fred Mendell, Hutchinson, Kas.
News: "It's a training table bill-of-fare for K. U. gridgers, but so far none of the boys has been trying to get away and back into the army. For breakfast they get eggs, bacon, fruit, cereal and toast. At noon they are served soup, meat, potatoes, two vegetables, a large salad and ice cream. A similar meal is dished out in the evening. . . . At present prices of groceries, that's outright subsidizing."

END OF THE LINE

Jimmy Kitts, Virginia Tech grid coach, claims he'll show Army the best pair of guards in college football Saturday in Bill Barbour and Jack Cooke. . . . Word from the south is that alumni wolves are howling after Auburn's Carl Voyles, even after he beat Florida, and assistant coaches at no fewer than six Southeastern conference colleges are being mentioned as possible successors. . . . Howard Cann is starting his 36th season as N.Y.U. basketball coach. . . . And it probably will seem a lot longer before he finishes it.

SPORTSMEN TO MEET

The Upper Adams County Fish and Game association will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Bendersville community hall. Hunters are asked to bring their 1946 licenses to qualify for the signing of petitions urging a closed season on doe in Adams county. Jack Myers, Hunters Run, will show moving pictures of wild life. President Charles H. Gulden has asked for a large turnout.

COLTS' SCHWENK LEADS PASSERS

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—A shakeup in statistics in the All-America football conference today revealed a new aerial star, the Baltimore Colts' Wilson (Bud) Schwenk, a cast-off from the Cleveland Browns and the Buffalo Bills.

Schwenk completed 15 out of 24 forward pass attempts for 124 yards in the Colts' protested 20-15 loss to the Bills at Buffalo Sunday. This raised his season's total to 82 good out of 149 for 1,024 yards and placed him at the top of the league in attempts, completions and yardage.

As a result of the juggling brought about by Sunday's games, official league figures released today left the 6-foot 2-inch, 200-pound former Washington university (St. Louis) griddier the top survivor of the trio formerly tied for first place among the passers. Orban (Spec) Sanders of the New York Yankees was dropped to fifth place, while Frankie Albert of the San Francisco 49ers fell into fourth.

Graham Comes Up

Otto Graham of the Cleveland Browns zoomed from sixth to second. Graham hit 19 out of 29 for 233 yards as the Los Angeles Dons registered their 13-10 upset over the Browns. His season record is 61 completions in 105 attempts for a total of 895 yards.

Schwenk's accurate flipper lifted him to second place in total offense behind Sanders, with 1,217 yards to 1,063 for the Yankee veteran. In the pass receiving department, Mac Speedie, Cleveland end, grabbed eight for 110 yards to take over first spot with 28 for 391 yards.

State's Place

Daly's Italian dialect poems, and Christopher Morley's whimsical sketches.

Mrs. Lewars On List

Pittsburgh, second city of the state, also has a literary history—the songs of Stephen Collins Foster, Margaret Deland's Friendly Villagers, Mary Roberts Rinehart's mysteries and Gladys Schmitt's novels. Other well-known literary born in or living in the Smoky City are Gertrude Stein, Robinson Jeffers, Hervey Allen, Daniel Long, E. L. Peterson and Joseph L. Grucci.

A literary map of the state between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh would show an author or two in almost every county. Among the best known names are Bayard Taylor of Kennett Square, Joseph Hergesheimer of West Chester, Samuel Hoffenstein of Wilkes-Barre, Stephen Vincent Benet of Bethlehem, Wallace Stevens of Reading, John O'Hara of Pottsville, Helen R. Martin of Harrisburg, Elsie Singmaster of Gettysburg, Lloyd Mifflin of Columbia, Mahlon L. Fisher of Williamsport, Sally Benson of Altoona, and Ida Tarbell of Titusville.

Publishing Houses, Too

The Pennsylvania Dutch region has been full of dialect writers in verse and prose, of whom Henry Harbaugh, Thomas Harter and John Birmelin are perhaps best known. In Bucks county, near Philadelphia, a literary colony has sprung up in recent years that includes George Kaufman, Moss Hart, Dorothy Parker and (appropriately) the Nobel prize winner, Pearl Buck.

At the numerous colleges and universities of the state scholars have published many books—Cornelius Weygandt of the University of Pennsylvania and Fred Lewis Pattee of the Pennsylvania State college being probably the most popular authors. Many small publishing houses are scattered through the state, and in Philadelphia are located one of the country's leading publishing houses, Lippincott's and the firm that perhaps is tops in magazine output, the Curtis Publishing company.

TWO UNBEATEN TEACHER TEAMS MEET SATURDAY

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Shippensburg Ramblers—leading the Pennsylvania Teacher college grid race with three wins and no losses—clashes with chief challenger, Slippery Rock, Saturday in a game that may well decide the title trend. Slippery Rock also boasts an unbeaten untied record in two starts this fall, rolling up 47 points to its opponent's 6. Shippensburg has scored 52 against 13.

Shippensburg barely nosed out East Stroudsburg last Saturday 12 to 7 while Slippery Rock was blasting Edinboro from the unbeaten column 23 to 0.

Other major attractions on the teacher program for the coming week-end are the games that match powerful West Chester, unbeaten in four starts outside the Teacher conference, with Lock Haven, and Millersville with Bloomsburg.

May See Big Scores

Lock Haven, loser to Bloomsburg earlier, climbed back into the victory class with a 14 to 0 win over Millersville Saturday.

The Lock Haven-West Chester game may set scoring marks with Joe Carloza of West Chester and Lock Haven's George Trefel hoping to add to the 30 points each has amassed to date.

In other week-end games California, with nine wins and not a loss last year, dropped its third straight of the current season to Indiana. Mansfield lost a non-conference contest to Cortland, N. Y., 13 to 6.

The standings:

Team	W.	L.	T.
Slippery Rock	2	0	0
Mansfield	1	0	1
Lock Haven	2	1	0
Bloomsburg	2	1	0
Indiana	1	1	0
Edinboro	1	1	0
Millersville	0	1	1
East Stroudsburg	0	1	0
California	0	2	0
Cortland	0	2	0

CAGE LEAGUE TO BE FORMED

A meeting for the purpose of starting the reorganization of the Adams County Independent Basketball league will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the fire engine house.

Organizations interested in placing a team in the league are urged to have representatives attend.

It has been learned that New Oxford and Littlestown are interested in joining the circuit and are expected to be represented.

While it is probable a number of teams participating last year will not be members this season a full eight-team league is almost a certainty. In view of the handicaps encountered last year it is likely to be a prerequisite for a new team to have access to a home court for league games.

3 Concerts

in 717 communities, including Gettysburg, and in many foreign countries.

He read a list of artists available for concerts in Gettysburg.

Selection of the artists who will appear here this winter will be made Saturday evening, after the close of the campaign. The type of concerts will depend upon the membership enrollment in the local association.

Mrs. Derek, membership chairman, expressed her appreciation for "the fine response from our workers, their splendid cooperation last year and their eagerness to continue to be associated with our association."

She explained that memberships are $6 for adults and $3 for students, including tax. She also explained that a GI attending school is considered a student as well as his wife, if married.

No Single Admissions

"No single admissions will be available at any of our concerts," Mrs. Derek emphasized. "If anyone wishes to attend our concerts they must enroll as members for the three concerts. Under no consideration will we sell tickets for any one concert."

Mrs. Derek said the association "has a fine opportunity to almost double our membership with the larger auditorium now available to us. I trust that each worker will make every effort to double her membership contacts this year and I am hopeful of an enrollment of 1,100."

She also urged the workers to make daily reports of the members enrolled and not to wait until Saturday, closing day of the campaign.

Headquarters are being maintained in the lobby of the Hotel Gettysburg where Mrs. Derek and other committee members will be on duty from 9 a. m., to 5 p. m., daily. Prospective members may enroll at the hotel headquarters. The telephone number is 667-W.

Treasurer Tibberg reported that the association has a balance of $126.

Penn Is Working On Pass Defense

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (AP)—Certain that Columbia's Gene Rossides will be pitching 'em all over Franklin field Saturday, Coach George Munger of Penn said today he would devote the rest of the week's practice to pass defense.

A few players suffered cuts and bruises in the game with Dartmouth Saturday but all are expected to be ready to go against Columbia. Munger had some fine words for the Dartmouth team, which held Penn to a 6-0 margin for three periods. He said:

"Anyone who saw the game with Dartmouth knew the final score (32-0) did not truly indicate the closeness of that game. Coach Tuss McLaughry has a grand club and should win many ball games this season."

CHOO CHOO TO KNOW HIS FATE NEXT SATURDAY

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 14 (AP)—Charlie Justice's Southern Conference football future will be at stake Saturday morning when the executive committee of the conference meets at Durham to discuss the eligibility of the University of North Carolina's backfield star.

Dr. H. A. Fisher of North Carolina State college, a member of the committee, announced last night that a special meeting has been called to discuss Justice's negotiations with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football league and his eligibility for further participation in the conference's varsity athletics.

NFL Commissioner Bert Bell said league records showed Justice signed a contract with the Eagles while he was playing for the Bainbridge (Md.) Naval Training Station during the war.

Bell made it clear, however, that his office did not approve the contract and that under NFL rules the commissioner's office must approve a contract before it is valid.

Was Top Scorer

Justice, known as "Choo Choo," gained national recognition last year when he led the Southern Conference in scoring honors and his Tar Heel teammates to the Sugar Bowl, where they lost to Georgia, 20-10.

His eligibility was questioned last Saturday by John J. Wicker, a Richmond, Va., attorney, who asserted that if Justice had signed a professional contract as stated in a magazine article then he should be declared ineligible, even though he signed the contract while under 21 years of age.

Wicker contended that if Justice is permitted to play in the Southern Conference, then ineligible Vernon Morgan of the University of Richmond likewise should be allowed to compete.

Morgan was ruled out of conference participation when it was disclosed he had entered into a professional baseball contract when he was 15.

HIS FRACTURE DAY

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 14 (AP)—Columbus Day football scrimmages are just a series of fractures in the life of 14-year-old Stephen J. Connelly, Jr. Young Connelly suffered a fracture of his right arm on Sunday—Columbus Day—the anniversary of the dates on which he was similarly injured last year and two years ago.

NORTHWESTERN NO PUSHOVER FOR MICHIGAN

By JOE REICHLER

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Michigan, voted the nation's number one college football team in the Associated Press weekly poll, probably will face the stiffest opposition of the top ten this Saturday when the high-scoring Wolverines clash with Northwestern in a Western conference game.

Although Michigan is expected to make it four straight wins, Northwestern is no pushover by any means. The Wildcats have won only one out of three, but that was a stunning 27-26 upset of the powerful UCLA eleven.

The Wolverines, who romped to a 69-0 victory over Pittsburgh last Saturday, received 93 first place votes, 29 second and a total of 1,258 points from 131 sports writers throughout the nation.

Notre Dame Second

Notre Dame, which fell from the top to second place, is not expected to have much trouble with Nebraska next Saturday. The Fighting Irish apparently lost some prestige in their 22-7 victory over Purdue and received only 23 first place votes to place second with 1,103 points.

Only four others of the top ten will see action over the week-end.

Fourth-ranked California entertains Washington State at Berkeley, Illinois, placed sixth after its scoreless draw with Army, meets strong Minnesota in another Western conference struggle. The Gophers placed 13th in the poll. The Illini received only one first place, 529 points to 476.

Penn Is Eighth

Unbeaten and unscored upon Pennsylvania, eighth in the ratings, meets Columbia in the outstanding game in the east.

Surprising Vanderbilt, whose 218 points just put them in the select ten, opposes Kentucky, conqueror of Georgia, in a Southeastern skirmish.

Texas, the Southwestern power, garnered 10 first place votes to place third with 996 points. The Longhorns were followed by California.

'White, Protestants' Benefit From Will

Media, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—John Bancker Gribbel, a Philadelphia manufacturer who died August 25, left his $1,000,000 estate in trust to his widow and other heirs with the stipulation that on their deaths the money is to endow a hospital ward "for sole use of white Protestant folks of Upper and Nether Providence townships, Delaware county (Pa.)."

Gribbel's will, filed for probate here yesterday, stated the ward is to be located in a hospital in Media. Should the Media hospital no longer exist when the endowment becomes effective the trust is to go to the Point Pleasant, N. J., hospital for a similar purpose.

Gribbel, president of the United States Paper Box company, was one of the principal heirs of the $3,000,000 estate of his father, John Gribbel, gas meter manufacturer. He died at the age of 62 at his summer home in Mantoloking, N. J.

Hanover Horse Wins Mile Heat Of Aurora

Aurora, Ill., Oct. 14 (AP)—Scotch Colleen, a little brown mare from the Baker Acres stables, suffered her first defeat in six starts last night as Friila Hanover won the mile heat of the $2,500 Aurora Downs trot in 2:06 1/5.

Scotch Colleen was an also ran in the race, the feature event of the grand circuit program. But she came back to battle Friila Hanover in the second division at a mile and a sixteenth. However, both horses ran themselves out after fighting for the lead and Moses, a powerful five year old gelding owned by Glen Barker of Chicago and driven by Ernie Hess, took the victory.

London, Oct. 14 (AP)—Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, 94, inspector-general of Britain's overseas forces in the First World War and commander of the ill-fated Dardanelles expeditionary force in 1915, died at his home here Sunday.

ALBA WEDDING IS CONTRAST TO NEEDY EUROPE

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)
Nero immortalized his name by fiddling while Rome burned.

Last Sunday His Grace, the Spanish Duke of Alba, who is possessed of vast riches and has more titles than any other person outside the royal families of Europe, gave his daughter, the Duchess of Montoro, in marriage to the fourth son of the Duke of Sotomayor in Old Sevilla.

It was an event whose magnificence hasn't been equalled since the palmiest days of the Spanish monarchy.

There were 2,000 guests. The bride's wedding gown reportedly cost about $10,000 and she wore jewels estimated to be worth $1,000,000. His Grace is said to have allocated $370,000 for the wedding festivities. Four hundred waiters served $70,000 worth of food, and the elect ate from the Ducal gold and silver service. About $4,400 worth of lobsters and shellfish were served for one course. The Duke also gave $4,400 to the poor of Sevilla—and made a multitude of other gifts.

Many Poor In Spain
Thus runs the glittering tale of pomp and splendor.

In most of Europe there is suffering, hunger and cold and other privation. Europe is fighting against the servitude of a totalitarianism that thrives on chaos and propaganda against people of great wealth.

Spain, of course, is rather on the outskirts of the great economic crisis but the poor she always has with her in large numbers. I saw a striking example of this in the rich and beautiful city of Madrid when I was there last year.

In the suburbs of the capital, with its fine boulevards and grand palaces, hundreds of families were living in direct poverty in caves dug into the many hills of hard sand. Their fate was indeed sad. Now right here it should be said that one shouldn't draw sweeping conclusions from this extraordinary situation because these cave dwellers didn't represent general conditions either in Madrid or in the country at large. They were part of the thousands who fled to the capital from the provinces during the Civil war of 1936-39 and created a terrible housing problem.

Rome Burned and Nero Fiddled
However, the cave dwellers were there. Most of the caves were very small—just big enough for the family to huddle together to try to escape the cold winds, and to spread their tattered blankets on the ground for sleep. They did their cooking over little fires in the mouth of the caves or outdoors. And they were lucky to have fires at all, for fuel was scarce.

How did these people live? Some by begging, some by stealing, some by odd jobs.

So Rome burned and Nero fiddled himself into history.

Andorra, a republic in the Pyrenees, has an area of 191 square miles and a population of about 6,000.

Re-opening of Methodist Episcopal Church: Interesting services were held on Sunday in connection with the re-opening of the auditorium of the Methodist church, which has been improved by an entire renovation. The walls have been beautifully frescoed, and the woodwork newly painted. . . . Two large heaters have been placed in the basement and the entire floor surface of the main room has been newly carpeted.

The entire cost of these improvements was about $700 actual outlay, some of the labor being performed by members of the church gratuitously.

Rev. Glenn, the Board of Trustees and the entire congregation are to be congratulated on the handsome improvements.

At 9 o'clock Rev. W. A. Carver, the former pastor, conducted the love feast services. At 10 o'clock, Rev. Dr. F. J. Morgan, president of Morgan college, Baltimore, preached, after which communion services were held. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, after the Sunday school exercises, a platform meeting was held, which was participated in by the various pastors of town. Rev. Steck, Rev. Brown, Rev. Woods, Rev. Horn and Rev. Carver delivered interesting addresses.

Dr. Wagner preached again in the evening to a large congregation. Dr. Wolf, of the Theological Seminary, Rev. Horn and Rev. Ege took part in the evening service.

The music was furnished by the regular church choir, under the leadership of Mr. Frank W. Mitten, with Miss Flora Deatrick as organist.

Local Miscellany: The three year old, Rubrician, belonging to J. L. Butt, Esq., and John C. Lower, took first premium at the Carlisle and York fairs.

John Reed Scott, Esq., has removed his law office to the Wills building on Center Square.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Pennsylvania is now in session at Williamsport. Mrs. Helen Keith, Miss Sarah McGrew and Miss Elizabeth McClean are the representatives of Adams county in attendance.

The college football team played the U. P. in Philadelphia, on Wednesday with a score of 57 to 0 in favor of the latter; on Saturday on Nixon Field with the Susquehanna university, the score being 4 to 0 in favor of that team.

The amount cleared at the supper of the U. B. Mite society, held on Tuesday at Mrs. Mary Heck's was $13.77.

The centennial celebration of Elias Ev. Lutheran church of Emmitsburg began on September 30 and was continued October 1, 2 and 3. Addresses were delivered by the pastor, Rev. Charles Reinwald, Rev. E. J. Wolf, D.D., Rev. T. C. Billheimer, Rev. L. DeVoe and others. The Gettysburg College Glee club was in attendance and sang some of their beautiful selections.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GREATEST ADVENTURE

There are those who have plenty of time to devote to land exploration, long and intricate research into the secrets of science and of the universe, but who have no time to explore themselves! The most interesting, and fascinating of all pursuits!

One of the great classics of the world "Walden", was born, when Henry D. Thoreau built that little hut at Walden pond—at the cost of about twenty-eight dollars—and not only explored the country thereabout, but intently explored himself. Then, after two years he left, and this is what he gave as his reason: "I left the woods for as good a reason as I went there. Perhaps it seemed to me that I had several more lives to live, and could not spare any more time for that one."

And so it is that the greatest of all adventures is to adventure into yourself. How little we know of ourselves, either physically, or mentally! One of the most interesting books in my library is one entitled "Man, in Structure and Function" by Dr. Fritz Kahn. Unfortunately it is rather expensive, but well worth the investment, for it shows one what a wonderful thing this human body of ours is, just from the physical structure—indeed the most wonderfully constructed organism in all life. After reading this book you look upon your own body with pride and wonder.

W. H. Hudson loved the wild, the forest, and the quiet stimulation of Nature. In one of his beautiful essays he said: "Out here in this wilderness of all places—the place to which a man might come to divest himself of himself—that second self which he has unconsciously acquired—to be like the trees and animals, outside of the sad atmosphere of human life and its eternal tragedy." What an adventure!

What do we know about our own mind? Do we go adventuring into it to find out? Its possibilities are so limitless. Even the psychologist is fascinated by his adventures into the human mind. The psalmist looked into the heavens and was so amazed at its glory and unlimited scope, that he exclaimed: "What is man?" And yet, man's mind is still more wonderful because it can look into the heavens and comprehend the glory of God, who created it all. All life may become a series of adventures—but the adventure into our own being, to think, to learn, and to spread influence is the greatest of all adventures!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Through The Eyes Of Another"

BANQUET TIME

Fill the fruit cups once again.
Have the tables plainly carded.
Serve the meat to please the men—
Tenderloin, and have it larded.
Peas and carrots in a dish;
And remember there's a reason
Some on Fridays ask for fish.
Hail once more the banquet season!

Get the ballroom; set the date.
Find as many as you're able
Of the city's rich and great
To adorn the master table.
Get a pretty girl to sing
Who will sit some baldhead's knee on.
Laugh from the throng to bring
Hail once more the banquet season!

Have the camera man in place.
On his ladder bravely standing,
Calling, "This way every face!"
Pleading first and then commanding.
Put the old tuxedo on.
Purchased when the form was thinner.
Autumn's here and summer's gone.
Hail once more the annual dinner!

RELIEF FUNDS FAIL TO MEET LIVING COSTS

Harrisburg, Oct. 14 (AP)—The state department of public assistance said today "The great rise in living costs was not foreseen" when $135,000,000 was fixed as the size of the appropriation for relief in the current two years.

"With assistance grants based on July, 1946, prices it is impossible to meet the price rises that have occurred since then and still stay within the appropriation," the department said in "People," a departmental publication reviewing relief problems.

The comment came as the state board of assistance, which acts on relief standards and fixes the level of grants, planned a session on Oct. 28 to consider assistance problems.

Explaining the department makes frequent studies of the cost of living to determine "how much is enough to maintain a family at a minimum standard of health and decency," the bulletin said the department tries to forecast in advance of legislative sessions.

"How prosperous business will be during the next biennium; to figure out the probable number of people who will need help during that period; and to foretell the trend in the price of the essentials of living."

Rise Not Foreseen
It added that a check with present conditions with predictions before the 1947 session of the general assembly shows "that guesses about the trend of business and the number on assistance were correct. But the great rise in living costs was not foreseen."

In August, the report continued, the average grant was $25.25 per person for the month, including food, clothing, shelter and utilities while the entire cost of the program was approximately $7,500,000, 63 per cent from state funds and 37 per cent from federal aid.

In the same period, essential needs of the average person on old age assistance was listed at $51 against a maximum allowance of $45, while the cost of essential needs to the average family receiving aid to dependent children was $130 maximum allowances of $102.

Capture One Bandit In Bank Holdup

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 14 (AP)—Lawrence Griffin, 35, of Bear, Del., is held in default of $10,000 bail to await extradition to Pennsylvania to face charges involving the $8,700 West Grove, Pa., bank robbery last Thursday, Delaware state police said today.

State police said Griffin was seized Saturday near Wilmington and held as a fugitive from justice after Pennsylvania state police obtained a warrant for his arrest on a charge of armed robbery.

Two men, carrying sawed-off shotguns held up the West Grove National Bank & Trust company, firing one shot inside the bank and then slightly wounding a post office clerk who shot at them as they fled in an automobile.

Delaware state police said Griffin indicated he would fight extradition to Pennsylvania.

GET PERMIT ON PIPELINES GAS

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Federal Power commission has granted the Texas Eastern Transmission corporation, of Houston, permission to transport natural gas through the Big and Little Inch lines to Philadelphia and the Appalachian region.

The commission's decision Saturday will make possible completion of the sale of the lines—constructed to alleviate the wartime oil transportation crisis—to Texas Eastern, which offered the high bid of $143,000,000. The company paid $5,000,000 with the balance due Nov. 25.

In asking the commission for permission to buy the lines, Texas Eastern sought approval of plans to build a four-mile branch line in Lincoln Parish, Louisiana, and a line from Skipack Junction, near Phoenixville, Pa., to connect with the Philadelphia gas works system at the Philadelphia city limits. Also to be added are connections with the Philadelphia Electric company at West Conshohocken, Pa., and Chester, Pa.

In announcing its decision, the commission said:

"The urgent need for natural gas along the route of the Big Inch lines in the Appalachian area and eastwardly to the Philadelphia area clearly warrants the permanent conversion of the Big Inch lines for the transportation and sale of natural gas."

"The record does not support the position taken by the railroad, coal and labor unions interests, whose purpose, it appears, was to prevent the introduction of natural gas into the Philadelphia and Eastern Pennsylvania area."

RED ACTIVITIES BEING PRESSED AROUND WORLD

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

About a fortnight ago the Soviet union placed before the joint American-Russian commission on Korea the extraordinary proposal that both nations withdraw their military forces from that strategically situated country and let the Koreans form their own government.

It was a naive suggestion—reminiscent of the famous invitation to the fly to walk into the spider's parlor. The Bolsheviks already were credited with having sovietized the northern half of Korea which they occupy, and to be prepared to perform a similar task for the southern part under American occupation. This would place the Koreans under Red domination and give Moscow one of the world's most important military bases—this despite the fact that the great powers during the war promised Korea her independence.

A spokesman of the American delegation at the U. N. tells us the reply to Mr. Molotov will be that the United States will make suggestions about troop withdrawals to the peace organization—in effect a rejection of the Soviet proposition. We are entitled to believe that Uncle Sam isn't proposing anything which would result in the virtual annexation of Korea by Russia—especially with China involved in a life and death struggle over communism. Little Korea is bound to be given international protection.

While Russia thus was pushing her world revolution in the Orient, she wasn't neglecting the western world by a long shot. Austria—another small but vastly important state which Moscow is determined to bring within its zone of domination—sustained a further staggering blow when the four-power commission (America, Britain, France and Russia) to draw up an Austrian peace treaty finally quit after five long months of fruitless argument.

Ostensibly the main difficulty has revolved about the question of reparations, with Russia demanding far more than the others think she is entitled to. Actually, however, close observers say that the Soviet has been pursuing deliberate tactics of obstruction, just as in the case of the German peace treaty, and in the deliberations of the United Nations. The point, of course, is that delay is calculated to give Russia a better chance of getting control of Austria, which in turn would bolster communism's hopes in Germany and Italy.

'Chutist Rescued In Path Of Train

Seranton, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—A parachutist entangled in wire along the Delaware and Hudson railroad tracks was rescued shortly before a freight train passed the spot.

Francis Cawley, of Taylor, the 'chutist, had leaped from a plane in connection with a celebration Sunday marking the opening of a new athletic field at nearby Minooka. As he landed his parachute became entangled in the wires, leaving him suspended a few feet above the railroad tracks. He was taken down by firemen attending the celebration.

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP)—Communism's move into western Europe "has been stopped cold for the past 60 to 90 days," Rep. Mundt (R-SD) declared Mon., "and could be turned into an ebb tide very easily. "We very definitely have to make a strenuous effort to increase our information program in there," he said in an interview. "Russian propaganda is vicious, well financed, and skillfully promoted by an active and extensive staff."

A sermon by the Rev. Dr. Arthur Brunn, of Brooklyn, was interpreted through signs by St. Matthew's pastor, the Rev. Floyd Possel, who is not deaf.

The congregation, also using signs, recited the Lord's Prayer.

Pennsylvanians will celebrate Pennsylvania Week October 13-19

Why this celebration in Pennsylvania? Because the more things we do to boost our State, and to improve our own community, the more people we invite here to live, the more industries we encourage to locate in Pennsylvania . . . the better off everyone will be. There will be more jobs, more business, and Pennsylvania will offer more and more opportunity for us—and for our children.

Pennsylvania Boasts Many Advantages —Tell Someone About Them DURING PENNSYLVANIA WEEK

Pennsylvania outproduces every other State in fifty major industries—has one-tenth of all the manufacturing employment and payrolls of all States. Skilled labor is plentiful in Pennsylvania.

SEE OUR DISPLAY IN THE G. C. MURPHY COMPANY WINDOWS, BALTIMORE, STREET

IT'S YOUR PENNSYLVANIA—KEEP IT GROWING

This advertisement, part of a state-wide campaign to boost Pennsylvania and to promote Pennsylvania Week, is sponsored by

KEYSTONE GARMENT CO.

C. G. WAGNER, Manager
106 NORTH STRATTON STREET GETTYSBURG, PA.

Pennsylvania alone is a bigger market than some whole nations. Within a radius of 500 miles is gathered 62% of the population of the United States, 68% of all manufacturing industries, 80% of the industrial workers and 81% of the industrial payroll.

Pennsylvania has more farms than all England and Wales.

Pennsylvania has an abundance of raw material resources and produces more power than any other State.

Pennsylvania is bountifully supplied with fish and game . . . trout streams are well stocked, forests abound with deer, small game and pheasants—even bears.

Pennsylvania is beautiful . . . with her mountains, forests, streams. Nature was in her most generous mood when she created Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania has everything!

CIO PASSING RESOLUTIONS REST OF WEEK

BY JAMES MARIOW

Boston, Oct. 14 (AP)—The main job of the CIO convention here for the rest of the week will be passing resolutions.

In most cases they won't amount to much more than this: they give the CIO a chance to go on record for something or against it.

For example: There's a resolution on foreign affairs. It's pretty mild. It says something like this:

"We need peace. The nations of the world should live in peace. So the nations of the world should try for peace."

But here's an example of where the CIO can do something. There's a resolution condemning the new Taft-Hartley labor law.

And, in its resolution, the CIO pledges to fight the act where, when and how it can.

Will Work For It

Since this resolution is stating a CIO policy, the CIO unions will work to try to carry it out.

But here's another which seems pretty sure to result in nothing:

This is a resolution suggesting that congress be called back into special session to bring back price controls to cut down the cost of living.

Since there is no sign of any wide feeling in congress to do anything of the kind, probably nothing like that will be done.

But, at least, the resolution gets the CIO on record as saying prices are too high and something should be done about them.

In all, 36 resolutions have been whipped into shape for the convention to vote on. Here's an explanation of how they got that way:

This CIO convention is a meeting of delegates from the 41 unions, representing 6,000,000 workers, which make up the CIO.

Customary Procedure

There are about 600 delegates here, and most of them are officers in the 41 unions they represent.

Most conventions pass resolutions. The CIO meeting is no exception in the way it handles its resolutions.

In the first place, it would be impossible in a week's time to try to

Littlestown Scouts At Unveiling Rites

Twenty-three members of Troop 64 Boy Scouts, Littlestown, and seven adult leaders attended the unveiling of the memorial to the Passenger Pigeon at Pigeon Hills Sunday afternoon, sponsored by the Conewago District of the Boy Scouts.

The scouts met on East King street near the square at 1:45 p. m. and were taken by bus to the unveiling and returned by bus. The scouts attending were: Dean Bankert, Robert Yingling, Harry Badders, III, Kenneth Shanebrook, Richard Wolfe, Kenneth Eyler, Gary Waltman, Bernard Crouse, George King, Victor Reynolds, Charles Brown, Charles Badders, Carroll Crabbs, Jack Mackley, Leroy Bish, Kenneth Olinger, Jr., Allen Shanebrook, Harold Cool, Richard Selby, Robert Baker, Everett Spangler, William Jacoby and John Harner.

The adult leaders attending were: Scout Master Alton Bowers, assistants Wilbur Mackley and Edgar Wolfe; and the following members of the Troop Committee: Luther Snyder, Edwin A. Rebert, Wilbur Bankert and Luther W. Ritter.

The scouts will hold their regular meeting Wednesday at 7 p. m. in the basement of the State bank.

put resolutions together in language satisfactory to the majority of the delegates.

So this year, as in previous years, top officers of the unions met here a week before the convention started.

Special committees were set up to put into shape resolutions upon a number of subjects in which the CIO is interested.

GETTYSBURG IS BULLETIN TOPIC FOR HOSPITALS

"Gettysburg is crammed with tradition," begins an article in the September News Bulletin of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania. "The battle fought there in the Civil War was the turning point in that conflict. A subsequent war, First World, also was a turning point in the history of that hallowed community."

That turning point referred to in the article came when John M. Warner, a Gettysburg resident, decided to provide money for the erection of a badly-needed hospital here.

"Camp Colt," the article continues, "located nearby, in 1918 was commanded by a young army major named Dwight Eisenhower. It was in October of that year that a young soldier arrived at the camp suffering from influenza, just as the place was about to be abandoned."

Cites Example In Charity
"Cases of the disease multiplied rapidly just as the camp hospital was being denuded of its staff. The citizens threw open a local building, Xavier hall, for the care of the cases."

"The emergency touched the heart of John M. Warner, a local citizen. A few months later he announced that he would finance the erection of a hospital in honor of his wife, Annie M. Warner."

"The young army major of the first World War, now General Eisenhower, returned to Gettysburg last year to give the principal address at the commencement of Gettysburg college and referred to the incident of the First World War as an example of the kindness and charity of the Gettysburg community.

"Ground was broken for the Warner hospital in 1919 but the building was not opened for the reception of patients until 1921. At that time the capacity was 40 beds. It was built on six acres of ground, also donated by Mr. Warner."

$225,000 Annex
"Equipping the institution was financed through a drive which netted about $80,000. The nurses' home was added in 1925."

"Demand upon the service of the hospital increased steadily and last June the Christian H. Musselman annex, which cost $225,000, was formally opened."

"The annex was erected by the Christian H. Musselman Foundation, set up by the late Mr. Musselman, pioneer Adams county fruit processor and, at the time of his death, owner of the largest apple products industry in the world, located at nearby Biglerville."

"Walter R. Doud is the superintendent."

San Francisco, Oct. 14 (AP)—The AFL leadership got behind a proposal today to collect a million dollars more annually from member unions to finance a far-flung "educational and public relations program."

Said Steel Price Had To Be Raised

Pittsburgh, Oct. 14 (AP)—There was "no escape" from steel price boosts, President Ben Morell of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. declared last night.

Morell, former navy coal mines administrator, said in a nationwide broadcast (ABC) that "the cost of the material, labor and services for the making of steel have increased an average of 70 per cent above prewar figures," while "the price of steel has gone up only half as much or an average of 38 per cent."

"If other prices had risen no more than steel," he added, "there would be very little talk of high prices today—for food or anything else."

*Increases since 1939, from Department of Labor Index for moderate income families in large cities, and from National Housing Agency.

...our costs have gone up, too!

SOME PEOPLE get along under higher prices by using less or doing without. Some have more income to help meet higher costs. All can adjust outgo to income, to a large extent.

But a railroad cannot skimp or do without and still provide good, efficient and safe service—adequate to the needs and desires of the public.

The chart at left shows why the Eastern Railroads have had to ask for an increase in freight rates. The simple reason is that the increases allowed since 1939 are nowhere near enough to meet today's costs. The revenue the railroads get for hauling the average ton of freight is only 15¢ more, whereas the cost of operating the railroads has increased more than 63% in that period.

Only recently, for instance, an arbitration board added another $468,000,000 to our annual bill for wages and wage taxes, of which $187,000,000 is borne by the Eastern Railroads. This brings the increase in these items alone to more than 75% since 1939.

All the railroads ask is what the law says they should be allowed to have. That means just and reasonable rates. The law says there is need in the public interest for adequate and efficient railway transportation service at the lowest cost consistent with furnishing such service.

In other words, all the railroads ask is sufficient revenue to enable them, under honest, economical and efficient management, to provide the kind of service people want.

Some examples of increased costs since 1939, affecting railroad operation

Increased freight rates since 1939 have increased the revenue from hauling the average ton of freight one mile only 15%

DRY ICE FAILS TO CHECK STORM IN EARLY TESTS

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 14 (AP)—A mass of scientific data on a storm born in the tropics was in the hands of scientists today for evaluation of the first attack on destructive winds with dry ice.

The information and numerous pictures were obtained by scientists who were carried over the top of an Atlantic ocean storm 500 miles off the Florida coast yesterday.

The value of the experiment will not be determined until lengthy study has been made of the data and pictures collected on the trip.

Make Many Tests

The first effort to unfathom mysteries of hurricane winds failed to produce spectacular results. Dry ice, previously used to bring precipitation from clouds, had no visible effect on the heavily clouded area.

Eighty pounds of ice were distributed in a thin line from a screw apparatus similar to those used in toker furnaces. Two B-17 bombers and a B-29, carrying ten observers, flew into the storm, directly off St. Augustine, Fla., at 24,000 feet. They remained over or near the storm for two hours, making innumerable tests with scientific equipment. Cameras clicked once a minute to record possible changes in cloud formations.

The scientists were looking for some method of turning the towering storm clouds into water or snow. Vincent Schaefer, consulting engineer for the General Electric company, said if the trick could be turned on a large scale it might point the way toward effective hurricane busting methods.

Triple-Sponsored Effort

"Or if we could find some way to disturb the equilibrium of a storm," he added, "we might be able to change its course."

He emphasized that yesterday's experiment was planned primarily for studying weather phenomena. He said better results could have been obtained with a smaller storm.

The General Electric company, the Navy and the Army sponsored the test. The Army supplied crews and bombers and the Navy provided technicians and equipment.

Stray Horse Stops Busy Chicago Airport

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP)—A stray horse got off the beam Sunday night and stopped operations at Chicago's Municipal airport for 30 minutes.

The horse appeared on the field suddenly, flicked its tail assembly, and without clearance from the control tower, galloped around the busy runways.

Thirty planes were held in the air awaiting an unobstructed runway. Air takeoffs were delayed while a squad car took off—to round up the frisky nag. The chase took a bit of squad car ground-looping before dobbie finally was brought to halt.

Carl Crist and William Frailey were guests over the week-end at the home of Mrs. Crist's mother, Mrs. Carl C. Hetzel, Cumberland, Md.

PTA Meeting

The first fall Parent-Teachers' meeting of St. Joseph's high school was held on Sunday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by President Mrs. Leonard Sanders, and was opened with a prayer by Sister Mary Catherine, principal of the high school. The minutes of the last meeting in May were read by Mrs. B. H. Boyle, secretary. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Dominic Greco. Fourteen mothers were present, five Sisters of the high school and one lay teacher, Miss Eileen Rodgers.

Prof. Dominic Greco, Guy A. Baker and Bernard H. Boyle were also in attendance to give a report on the progress being made on the athletic field being constructed at the rear of the high school. Mr. Baker explained that the field is now ready for lime and fertilizer as a preparation for the planting of grass seed. He also stated that more funds are needed for the completion of the new field and asked the parent-teachers' group to assist in this important matter.

Mrs. Henry Gerken, of the Ways and Means committee, urged some form of entertainment be supplied for the children of the school one night of the week, such as dancing, games and a social get-together, to take the place of the Study club, which has been discontinued. The suggestion was approved and plans and regulations will be announced at a later date. A Hallowe'en dance for the high school was discussed and approved with Mrs. Guy A. Baker as general chairman. Pumpkins, apples, balloons and corn fodder will be the main attractions for decorating.

As a means of raising funds to complete the athletic field a suggestion was made by one of the high school teachers that the men of the parish give a minstrel show. Bernard H. Boyle was asked to take charge of the show, to be assisted by Louis H. Rosensteel.

Dues for the members of the Parent-Teachers' association were fixed at $1 per year and will be due the first of January. The next meeting will be held November 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gutshall, of Waynesboro, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Maude Harbaugh. They celebrated their first wedding anniversary. A dinner was served in their honor which Mrs. Gutshall's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harbaugh, of California, all attended.

A birthday party was held on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Gelwicks, De Paul street, in honor of their daughter, Donaldine, who celebrated her rate of 1,000,000 a year, President Stanley A. Gillespie, of Greenville, said in a statement there will, nevertheless, still be a shortage of homes for an indefinite period in the future.

Coincidentally, Frank C. Hilton, State commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, announced appointment of advisory housing committee to try to work out a plan to alleviate what he termed the veterans housing shortage in Pennsylvania.

"The need for adequate housing for veterans cannot be overstressed," Hilton explained. "Various suggestions and plans have been advanced for solving this problem. However so far little has actually been accomplished in this direction."

Gillespie, on the other hand, said modification of rent control to exempt new rental units from regulation on rentals has resulted in a "boom in rental construction" and that "investors now are putting their money in investment housing."

If the present pace continues, he added, more homes will be available in Pennsylvania and other parts of the country within the next year than at any time since 1942 when rent controls were imposed.

On the question of price, he said "no price decrease is in sight for many years" in spite of the attitude of many persons who have adopted a "wait and see attitude."

He added, however, that only a shortage of materials can halt the increase in construction, explaining that a shortage of nails is again plaguing builders in every part of the country.

New Housing Committee

The new VFW housing committee is headed by George Van Orden of New Hope and includes these other members:

John McFate, Oil City; Murrel R. Kiefer, Strasburg; Fred S. Heffner, Pittsburgh; Raymond W. Sawdey, Erie; Maynard M. Small, New Cumberland; C. Timothy Slack, Coatesville; Victor Brodman, Philadelphia; Tobias Oberholzer, Glenside; Harold J. Williams, Mahoney City, and Clarence A. Woodling, Primos.

"This committee," Hilton said, "may not necessarily find the solution (on housing) but by thoroughly investigating and studying these pressing conditions, it is hoped that a greater knowledge of the overall picture and its shortcomings will be obtained, which may lead to a solution in part at least, to this very pressing and timely problem confronting thousands of veterans in Pennsylvania today."

Columbian Indians in the early days scornfully called platinum "unripe gold."

SLASHED TO DEATH

Grindstone, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—Charles Dunn, 38, was slashed to death with a penknife early Monday when he alighted from a bus with a woman companion. County Detective William J. Long said another man, held for questioning, slashed Dunn 14 times in an argument over the woman's affections.

FORECAST RISE BUILDING COST OF 10 PERCENT

Harrisburg, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Real Estate Association forecast today "the cost of building an average home will jump about 10 per cent within the next six months to a year" should the present price rise continue.

Asserting the nation's builders are now constructing new homes at the rate of 1,000,000 a year, President Stanley A. Gillespie, of Greenville, said in a statement there will, nevertheless, still be a shortage of homes for an indefinite period in the future.

Clear Out "Jungle"
The board voted to have several old willow trees along the creek north of the high school cut down, and to pay not more than a week's wages for the job, the cutter to have the wood. Reports were received that most of the work of clearing out the "jungle" north and east of the school has been completed. Board members pronounced it "a fine job."

Elmer H. Schriver, high school agriculture teacher, was granted a week's leave to attend the national convention of the Future Farmers of America in Kansas City, Mo. He will leave Friday.

The board voted to pay its dues in the School Directors' association and also in the secretaries' association.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on October 11 of $55,252.68 in the general fund and $4,353.15 in the sinking fund. The cafeteria report showed receipts of $975.69, expenditures of $791.18 and a balance of $184.51.

Members of the board present at Monday night's meeting were: Charles Black, president, Mahlon P. Hartzell, Sr., secretary, Ralph Z. Oyer, Charles B. Bender, George T. Refensperger and Paul M. Rohrbach. Charles M. Sheely was absent.

Chapter 3

Brant felt his anger rising, but he made himself wait. Whatever was happening, there in the mill, was strictly Ella's and Crane's affair—and perhaps Mac's. He had no right or reason to interfere. Nevertheless he went to the nearest door of the mill and pulled it open.

The deafening clatter of machinery greeted him and the aromatic smell of chopped spruce tingled in his nostrils.

Brant peered right and left without seeing anyone. Beams, shafts and tanks would have hidden Macfarlane from his view, in any event, and the regular workmen would have left the premises within five minutes of the whistle's signal. But there should have been someone around, for from one end of the place to the other wheels were turning, belts slapping and four-foot logs bumping along over revolving rollers in a deep trough.

Sensing something extraordinary and possibly ominous, Brant started at the end of the trough where the logs came up through the floor on an endless belt stripped of bark and washed clean, and tumbled into the conveyor. He walked 50 feet to the steel drum of the chopper, where the noise was the loudest, and stood fascinated.

The drum was filled with spinning knives, visible through an opening into which the logs slid endwise. The flashing blades bit into the fibrous wood with a snarl, chewing it ravenously. Within ten seconds a 12-inch log, which had taken a man's lifetime to grow, became a flutter of half-inch chips leaping upward through a square wooden due, to be bruised between iron rollers and dumped into a tank of churning yellow mush.

In this tank a mixture of lime, sulphuric acid and woodpulp was stirred by metal paddles while steam pipes heated it. For eighteen hours the mess would cook, bubbling sluggishly, before being dumped into the series of bleaching tanks, refiners and dyeing vats. Finally it would be mixed with clear water and started on its careful course through the paper machine, with its sand traps, fire cloth, suction boxes, ironing rollers and surfacing calendars.

The log he watched slide into the bright knives this Thursday would be Red Rock bond paper in the stockroom Saturday afternoon. Once, years ago, when Brant had been in the mill, Mac had stopped him beside the cutting machine to say, "If ever you want anybody killed, bring him here and we'll stage the perfect crime."

There would be no possible way of establishing the corpus delicti, according to Macfarlane. Chips from the logs that came after would polish the knives and obliterate bloodstains. Flesh, bones and clothing would be absorbed in thousands of gallons of pulp and acid. Not even the most searching analysis would disclose the presence of human chemicals in that smelly sea. And such comparatively indestructible things as coins, buckles and shoe nails would be hopelessly lost in tons of waste.

Remembering, Brant shuddered. He rounded the chopper and stopped short, staring at a scarlet hunting cap and a fur-lined mitt on the floor. His gaze traveled to the boarded sides of the conveyor and came to rest upon a long red streak on its upper edge. The streak was wet and glistening.

Knowledge of what must have happened came instantly. All he could think of was that he had to stop this murderous machine, even if it were too late to reclaim anything that had gone into the bubbling acid mess in the digester.

He swung toward the open door of the foreman's room. He saw the switch handle jutting from its metal box just as his feet struck a man's body lying on the floor. Falling, he threw out an arm and hit the handle. The racket lessened, the shriek of belted wheels became a groan, the thumping of logs ceased. Before Brant could pick himself up the whole building was still.

Still as death.

The man on the floor was John Macfarlane. He lay on his back, his bearskin cap tumbled from iron-gray hair. The flesh about his left eye was swollen and a blow of some kind had split his lip at one corner. The slow trickle of blood along the line of the jaw told Brant that he still lived.

He yelled, "Mac!" and tugged at the big shoulders. His eyes sought in vain for any sign of Ella.

Macfarlane's lips moved. His eyelids quivered.

"What happened, Mac?" Brant asked.

"Hit my head," Macfarlane whispered. "Must have fallen."

"You were knocked down, Mac. Who did it?"

The paper manufacturer took a deep breath. He felt of his injured eye and his mouth. He began to swear busily.

"Crane," he said. "We were fighting."

Brant gulped. "It looks as if he went into the log conveyor. Into the conveyor and into those knives and—"

"What?"

"There was blood—" Brant began and fell silent. A man had stepped around the end of the chopper. He wore blue denim overalls, bulging with sweaters and trousers underneath. He was short and heavy and his battered nose slanted across his face like an unlucky prizefighter's.

"Charlie King," Brant said.

"Hyah, Andy," King's small eyes studied the marks of combat on the mill owner's face. "Mister Macfarlane, I been lookin' for you. You was the one that hired me, an' if I'm fired off this job after seven years, you're the one that's got to do it."

"Fired?" Macfarlane repeated.

"Who said so?"

"Crane."

Macfarlane's nostrils flared. "If that yellow-livered rat—" He changed his mind. "Listen, King, I'm busy. Come around tomorrow."

"I'll be here," King said. "In time for work."

Chapter 4
Staring after the departing figure of King, Macfarlane's jaw tightened. He said to Brant, "Give it to me straight. You said Crane went into the chopper. You said there was blood."

"Blood on his cap and one of his mittens," Brant turned to point. "But—they're gone!"

"King took 'em, I guess. I saw him stuff something under his coat. I wonder why."

"I can guess, Blackmail."

Macfarlane grunted. "Blackmail for what? Crane couldn't have gone into that chopper. I cut off the power just before he showed up."

"The power was on when I came in, Mac. The machinery was running full blast and you were out cold. I pulled the switch."

"Why, then—" The big man's face was grim. "I reckon I must have killed him. I'd thought about it often enough."

He said, "But you were out cold. How could you have killed anybody?"

"You don't know how mad I can get, Andy. I've been out on my feet and still fighting before this. I could have chucked him in the trough, turned on the machinery, and then passed out."

"Nonsense," Brant grasped Mac's elbow. "I'll bet Crane's as healthy as either of us. Let's take a look around."

They went farther back into the mill, through a forest of steel girders that supported mammoth tanks. They found Tony Brinker, a watchman, squinting at a gauge on a pipe elbow.

"Anybody been in since the gang quit?" asked Mac.

"I seen Charlie King," replied Brinker.

"How about Crane?"

Brinker spat a brown stream of tobacco juice toward a waste box. "Ain't seen him since I come on the job."

They climbed steel stairways to a platform supporting a huge switchboard. Jim Scott, an engineer, waved a gloved hand.

"Where's Crane?" Macfarlane asked.

Tugging at a bristly mustache, Scott said he had not seen Crane and would not grieve if he never saw him again.

Macfarlane frowned. He led Brant back the way they had come, and out across the open space to the office building. In his own office he produced a bottle and glasses from his desk drawer.

"You don't mind drinking with a murderer, Andy?"

"Cut it out," Brant pleaded. "If Crane was killed, I'll bet Charlie King did it because Crane fired him."

"Maybe. On the other hand, I'm not going to kid myself. I'll take the blame for this."

"Meaning you want to think you did it?"

Macfarlane swallowed whisky and took a cigar out of his pocket. "Meaning my conscience won't bother me. As far as the law is concerned, who could ever prove Crane is dead? I'll make fine bond paper of him, after I've bleached the yellow out of the pulp."

"Stop it," Brant said. "I'm not as tough as you are."

"Are you tough enough to keep this to yourself?"

Brant looked him in the eye. "You know I am. We've been friends too long for you to doubt it."

His eyes went hard again. "Andy I'd kill anybody who tried to make trouble that would react on Ella. I'm thinking about Charlie King. Maybe he didn't see or hear anything. But if he did, and if he's got ideas about blackmail—"

"I'm with you all the way," Brant said, "but there's no use looking for trouble. Forget it for now, and let's go."

"I've got to stick around. This storm may shut us down for a few days, and I'll have to make arrangements. Stop and tell Ella I'll be late for supper, will you?"

John and Ella Macfarlane lived in a large brick house, not far from the mill. Steam radiators and a cheerful blaze in the stone fireplace filled the room with aggressive warmth as Brant, feeling oddly embarrassed, let her help him out of his mackinaw.

"Mac asked me to stop by," he explained.

GOVERNMENT IS COSTING MORE THAN FOOD

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (AP)—American people are crying out about the high cost of living, "yet government now costs us more than food," says Senator Edward Martin (R-Pa.).

"That is a dangerous situation," he stated in an address last night at the unveiling of the Gimbel art collection during Pennsylvania week ceremonies. He added: "No people, regardless of their ability or their wealth, can long endure such a heavy burden and retain their freedom."

"The world in this trying period needs more of the spirit of our fathers who wanted freedom in preference to security."

More Chaos Than War

"The world is in a more chaotic condition than during the war. People want to live without work, and are jealous of those who have achieved through hard work. If we are to solve the great problems we must have faith in ourselves and faith in God. To attain real faith in ourselves we must work. To build faith in God we must work for the benefit of others as well as ourselves."

The $100,000 Gimbel art collection was compiled under the auspices of Ellis Gimbel, department store executive. Martin said "it moves Pennsylvania a long stride forward on the cultural front which must progress simultaneously with the industrial and commercial front for true balance and true greatness."

A painting depicting Abraham Lincoln's introduction to the printing press at Vincennes, Ind., in 1830 was unveiled to Philadelphians for the first time in another Pennsylvania Week ceremony yesterday.

Before hundreds of spectators in the large court of the John Wanamaker department store, Governor James H. Duff of Pennsylvania pulled back the curtain over the paintings as the artist, Albert T. Reid of New York, stood by. Reid, elderly former newspaper publisher and cartoonist, drew the pencil sketch of the painting some 20 years ago for a magazine.

The painting, "The meeting of the Two Great Emancipators," along with the Ramage pres which Reid used for the model, will go to Vincennes for a Lincoln shrine.

Reid found the press in the print shop of Edward Smith in Reading, Pa. It is in working condition and Duff rolled off several newspapers after the unveiling ceremonies. The press was built here about 1815, one of the few exact replicas of the press young Lincoln saw in the old Western Sun office in Vincennes when his family stopped there for repairs to their wagons. The Vincennes press never has been found.

Miss Helen Myers presented the report of the secretary. The secretary's report revealed that a committee consisting of the Rev. Grantas E. Hoopert, the Rev. Arthur Leeming and Miss Helen Myers had completed plans for the Third District fall rally which will be held at the Hoffman orphanage, Saturday evening, November 1, at 7:30 o'clock. They have secured the Rev. Harry Haines, a missionary to China as the speaker. A youth choir will be organized for this rally. All the Young People of the Sunday Schools of the Third District will be eligible for this choir. Rehearsals will be held at the Orphanage October 23rd and 30th at 7:30 p. m.

President Shildt appointed a committee to formulate aims and objectives for the Sunday schools in the Third District. This committee consists of the Rev. Kenneth D. James, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, Harry E. Bair and Stanley Staub.

Following the business session, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds and Harry E. Bair, two of the Third District delegates to the 85th annual sessions of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath school association held at Scranton last week, presented high-lights of the session.

Following the meeting, the committee served refreshments to all present.

Young People Meet

The Youth Fellowship of the Redeemer's Reformed church on Sunday evening was in charge of Doris Hess. Her topic was, "My Faith and my Bible." There will not be a meeting of the Youth Fellowship next Sunday as they will join in a Youth Rally of Mercersburg Synod to be held in Zion Reformed church, York, on Sunday afternoon and evening. The members of the society are requested to take along a box lunch. The leader for the next meeting on October 26 will be Emily Badders.

Miss Nellie Hoffman, East King street, returned Sunday night from a visit with her uncle in Westminster.

Moves To Boonsboro

Mrs. John Moudy, West King street, left Sunday for Boonsboro, Md., where she will reside with her sister, Mrs. Garfield Gilbert.

Mrs. Ernest Sentz, Sr., East King street, returned Sunday from a two-weeks' visit with her daughter Mrs. George Szudajko, Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Eisenhart and son, Donald, York, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Eisenhart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Randall, Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Randall included Mr. and Mrs. James Randall, daughter, Carole, York, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Randall and daughters, Regina and Carolyn, Westminster.

Five-year-old Louise Groft, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Groft, West King street extended, has been a patient in the Warner hospital, Gettysburg, since she slipped on a muddy board and fell while playing five weeks ago. The child suffered a badly fractured left femur. A cast has been applied to her lower body and both legs. She is improved and the parents are hopeful for her return home in the near future.

Woman's Club to Meet

Banns of matrimony were published for the second time at the late mass in St. Aloysius church, Sunday morning between Elena C. Pfaff of the parish and Clyde H. Rohrbaugh, of St. Joseph's parish, Hanover.

The second meeting for the year 1947-1948 of the Woman's Community club of Littlestown and vicinity will be held on Wednesday evening. Guest night will be observed and each member is expected to bring a guest and also come masked as this will be a Halloween party.

Those members who submitted the names of new members at the September meeting will personally invite these new members to be present and introduce them to the club. The program committee for this meeting is Mrs. Roscoe Spencer, chairman; Mrs. Carl H. Baumgardner, Mrs. John Fleming, Mrs. Clarence Hall, Mrs. Richard A. Little, Mrs. Marvin Nestor and Mrs. George Smith.

The hostess committee consists of Mrs. Clayton Evans, chairman; Mrs. Harry M. Badders, Mrs. William Dixon, Mrs. Raymond Geisler, Mrs. E. Roy Kindig, Mrs. John Legore, Mrs. John Sell and Mrs. Clair Worley.

If the leaves of books become damp, sprinkle cornstarch between them. This will dry them and prevent mildewing.

Add a different touch to the shirred egg by putting a thin slice of fresh tomato in the bottom of the shirring dish.
